SURFING!!

HUMORIST, ARTIST, FLIRT...

Some people call me Bonez. I have lived in Burlingame, California all my life. I'm always ready to get down to business, as well as party! Life is just too short to stagnate.

I'm a guy with a lot on my mind. To communicate I use my Vanguard communication device or my voice and signs to answer questions or make requests.

I am active at Abilities United a community based program, where I volunteer, attend art class, and started my own coffee delivery business providing staff and my fellow participants with their favorite drink from Peet's. My favorite drink is a mocha!

If you know me, you know that I have a good sense of humor, I am a huge flirt and I can swear like a truck driver. Good slap-stick comedy makes me laugh until the point I can't breath. One of the best things that ever happened to me was meeting Adam Sandler and interviewing him backstage at the Bridge School benefit concert.

In my free time I enjoy adaptive bowling (don't need no stinking bumper guards), going to concerts, Giants games, surfing and going out to eat. My favorite is In and Out.

One of the things people know me for are my wild wheelchair Halloween costumes. What people may not know about me is that I love to sing along with the music I play on my Vanguard. Maybe I'll show you my playlists. Also, I am an artist. Painting with another artist we have developed an adaptive process called "partnered art".

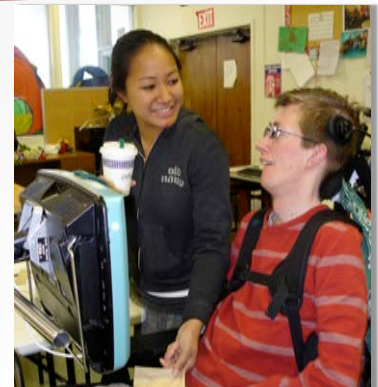

A good time for me is... hanging with friends, listening to music and being a ladies man!
